The definition of the situation is a fundamental concept in symbolic interactionism advanced by the American sociologist W. I. Thomas. It involves a proposal upon the characteristics of a social situation (e.g. norms, values, authority, participants' roles), and seeks agreement from others in a way that can facilitate social cohesion and social action.

Definition of the situation - Wikipedia presence of symbols is fundamental to the existence of societies, our self-concepts, and our minds. In some ways, symbolic interaction theory isn't even a theory and might be more aptly referred to as a branch of sociology or social psychology.
